

Good Afternoon,

The Airforwarders Association takes its mission very seriously - to be an effective advocate for members and to provide information and education to the airforwarding industry. On Thursday November 5th, we plan to provide our perspective at the Air Cargo Americas conference in Miami and look forward to seeing members who plan to attend. Miami is a major gateway handling almost 80% of all air exports between the U.S. and Latin America and the Caribbean. The city's international trade community provides a dynamic and large visitor base of international executives and aviation officials who attend the show. For registration information, go to www.aircargoamericas.com.

State-of-the-Air Cargo Industry: “Strategies for Creating Profit – Freight Forwarders Perspectives”

Topic: Leading executives of logistics companies will discuss the dynamics that must occur between shippers, logistics companies and airlines to ensure that products are transported on a timely and quality basis. Speakers will address the integration of logistics chains from the perspective of shippers, freight forwarders and airlines. Also, they will identify the best strategies to overcome shipping impediments and inefficiencies.
